

The D.o.M.P.* Song

Lloyd Fricker

*Department of Molecular Pharmacology

(to the tune of “YMCA” by the Village People)

Young man, do your friends look away
When you tell them, all about work that day
Are you boring, them to tears when you say
Anything a-bout your re-search

Young man, there’s a place you can go
With excitement, and desire to know
So much action, not a moment that’s slow
You will even get free pizza

Chorus:

I like to be in the D.o.M.P.
I like to be in the D.o.M.P.
Just hang out with the best
And forget all the rest
No committees to make you stressed

D.o.M.P.

I like to be in the D.o.M.P.
There’s no need to shed tears
You’ll get out in 6 years
And maybe even have careers (in science)

Young man, I was once in your shoes
I said I was, down and out with the blues
I thought no man, gave advice I could use
They just did not un-der-stand me

That’s when, Charlie came up to me
And said “yo man, check out D.o.M.P.
It’s a place where, you will really be free
And unfettered by committees”

Chorus:

I like to be in the D.o.M.P.
I like to be in the D.o.M.P.
There’re no dogs or cats
Only mice, frogs, and rats
Also cultured cells in vats

D.o.M.P.

I like to be in the D.o.M.P.
It is the place to go
To learn all you must know
To become the C.E.O. (of Pfizer)

Young man, take a look and you’ll see
That our Mol. Pharm., is the best place to be
We’ve got Backer, Carrasco, Lisanti
Brewer, Zhang, Chow, Orr, and Fricker

Chairman, is a strength—we’ve got two
So if one’s out, then the other will do
In the daytime, Susan’s who we go to
And then Charlie works the night shift

Chorus:

I like to be in the D.o.M.P.
I like to be in the D.o.M.P.
Histo gives you a stain
Neuro’s all in the brain
And Genetics is just a strain

D.o.M.P.

I like to be in the D.o.M.P.
Some Anatomy’s gross
Micro’s focused up close
Pharm works best in a daily dose

I like to be in the D.o.M.P.
I never leave the old D.o.M.P.
Not a care or a strife
Speculation is rife
I will be here all my life!
